Caltrans District 9 Director Tom Hallenbeck extends an invitation to prime/general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers and small businesses to attend an introductory class to:

- Understand the first three steps your business must take to enter the government marketplace.
- Learn which certifications may be best suited for your company.
- Benefit from the more than 200 years of combined government contracting experience from the instructors.
- Learn how to take full advantage of the Federal Technology Center's free government contracting assistance to help your business prosper.
- Gain insight into effectively searching for government bids online.

This class is presented by: The Federal Technology Center.

There is no charge for attending this class.

"This is a great opportunity, offered locally, for businesses to learn federal, state and local government requirements, certifications, and qualifications", said Director Hallenbeck.
